Commonwealth Making Strong Case Against Jett and White

Tom White Had Been Shadowing Marcum Three Days Before the Chance Came.

NEW WITNESSES TESTIFY

Cynthiana, July 31—The feature of this morning's session was the development that Tom White, Asbury Spicer, and others had been watching Marcum two days before he was killed by Mrs. Rader the prosecution showed that White shadowed Marcum Saturday, and J. S. Johnson testified that he saw White, Spicer and others watching Marcum Sunday.

All the prosecution's witnesses today have straightened the story of Ewen and Schiff, F. A. Bradley, and Robert Fulkerson, new witnesses, saw Jett at the side door of the court house before and after the murder.

The commonwealth in the second trial of Curtis Jett and Thomas White for the murder of J. B. Marcum has not only produced new witnesses but also secured additional evidence from those who had testified at the first trial in Jackson.

S. S. Tanlbee, clerk of Breathitt county, testified to standing at Hargis Bros. store, across the street from the Jackson court house; and seeing Marcum fall and Ewen running away. He did not see Jett in the street, where the prisoner claims to have been at the time of the shooting.

William Combes testified to holding county office at Jackson for thirty years. He was in Judge Black's office when he heard the shooting. Looking out he saw Marcum fall and Jett afterward emerging from the court house.

Hezekiah Combes, a new witness, testified to seeing John Noble, Curtis Jett and Thomas White together just before the shooting. White beckoned Jett to the side door of the court house where both entered. He talked with Noble then and soon heard the shooting.

Barney Schiff, a ginseeng peddler, whose home is at Charleston, W. Va., testified during the afternoon session that he had seen Curtis Jett go into the courthouse a few minutes before the killing of Marcum, and come out immediately after the firing of the two shots. He was vigorously cross-examined. He is badly scared, and is in the protection of the soldiers across the river.

LIGHTNING KILLS THREE.

AND MORE THAN A SCORE INJURED IN VIRGINIA.

Lynchburg, Va., July 31—Three persons were killed and more than a score injured by lightning at New Hope church, Appomattox county. The dead are:

Paul Gowen, Charles Austin, Aubrey Wingfield.

Among the more seriously injured are: Eugene Turner, Nathaniel Morris, Tom Coleman, Napoleon Patterson.

A meeting of the James River Baptist association was in progress and a number of men took refuge under an awning near the building when the storm came up. Lightning struck a tree in front of the awning, causing the disaster and a panic among the crowds.

Major Thomas E. Moss has returned from Woodville.

TURNED DOWN AGAIN

Law and Order Committee Calls on Mayor Yeiser.

Asks Him to Appeal 10:30 Law But He Says it Is Not His Business.

MEETING OF LEAGUE THIS EVE

Messrs. T. F. Toof, E. W. Smith and Captain James Koger yesterday afternoon called on Mayor Yeiser and asked him to appeal the decision of Judge Sanders in the 10:30 closing ordinance. They constituted a committee from the Good Government league, and Mayor Yeiser informed them that it was not his business to appeal such cases, and he would not appeal this one unless the council instructed him to do so.

This is the second committee to call on him from the league this week, the other one presenting a petition asking that the money turned over to the mayor by the Baseball association for charity be returned. The mayor declined to do it.

Some of Mayor Yeiser's friends have called on him and urged him to give the league in unequivocal words to understand that he is capable and determined to run city affairs coming under his jurisdiction without assistance or advice.

The mayor does not seem disposed to treat the committee impolitely, although he seems to believe that the 100 or more members of the league will vote against him no matter what he does. He declares that he will continue to do what he believes is best for the greatest number regardless of the wishes of any clique or class.

The Citizens' Good Government league will meet tonight in regular session at the Broadway Methodist church. No special program has been arranged for the meeting, however.

HEAVILY ARMED MEN

HUNDREDS OF THEM SEARCHING FOR THE CONVICTS.

Placerville, Cal., July 31—All night hundreds of heavily armed men are now engaged in the search for the 12 surviving prisoners, who escaped from the Folsom penitentiary on Monday. The outlaws remain masters of the situation. They have succeeded in eluding their pursuers, and the ultimate escape of at least some of the men seems highly probable. Since the fatal fight at Pilot Hill on Monday night in which one of the convicts was killed, the others have not been seen, unless the story of William Green, a cowboy, who says he met two armed men in Placer county today and afterwards identified them by photographs as a couple of the outlaws, proves to be true.

DIED FOR SCIENCE

THIS IS THE BELIEF OF M. FILIPPOFF'S FRIENDS.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—M. Filippoff, the famous Russian scientist, editor of the Scientific Review, at Moscow, who was found dead recently in his laboratory, it is now proved died as a martyr for his efforts to abolish war. It was first thought that he died from an apoplectic stroke, but a letter received from him by one of his friends here seems to prove that his death resulted from handling a most insidious chemical composition. He says in the letter:

"When I was still very young I read in Buckle's 'History of Civilization' how the invention of powder had abbreviated wars. From that very day I have been haunted by the idea that I might invent something which might make wars impossible.

"I think now that I have succeeded. I have made an invention by which it is possible to send waves of explosion thousands of kilometers. I can today, without the use of wires, stand in St. Petersburg and blow into atoms the Yildizkiosk at Constantinople.

"My invention is extremely simple and surprisingly cheap. It will make wars an absolute impossibility. I intend to explain my invention in all details to the academy of science at St. Petersburg in the beginning of September.

"I must, however, be very careful and work very slowly as I am continually handling chemicals, some of which are terrible explosives, while others are exceedingly poisonous."

On the table next to Filippoff's body were found notes indicating that he had been handling anhydride of prussic acid, and it is now thought that this terrible poison killed him.

The Russian government is in possession of all his papers, and no one knows whether the czar at the present time holds the secret of the scientist's invention. If he does, he will certainly be able to force all powers to submit all their quarrels to his court of arbitration at The Hague, and the world will never see another war.

FULTON WATERWORKS.

Frankfort, Ky., July 31.—The state board of valuation and assessment held a session here and heard a protest from the Fulton Waterworks company against the assessment made for franchise tax purposes. The board on final action fixed the assessment at $15,000.

WELL KNOWN CHEMIST DEAD.

Louisville, Ky., July 31.—Dr. Louis D. Kastenblum, one of the most prominent chemists in Kentucky, is dead. He had been ill for several months from Bright's disease, and had not been out since May. He leaves a family.

INCIDENT RECALLED

REMINISCENCE OF CAPTAIN C. D. BLOSSOM, OF ST. LOUIS.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat, speaking of Captain C. D. Blossom, who died there a few days ago and has relatives in Paducah says:

The death of C. D. Blossom recalls to the minds of many of the older steamboat men the days when the Missouri river was in the height of its glory as a commercial route to the northwest. Mr. Blossom having been a clerk on the steamer Polar Star, Captain Briarly as master of the boat in 1856, when she made a fast run from St. Louis to St. Joseph, her time being two days and twenty hours. Colonel Hunter Ben Jenkins, agent of the Columbia, was a boy at his home town, Lexington, and remembers the occurrence well. A handsome set of Elk horns was presented to the boat by the people of St. Joseph, with the understanding that they should be presented to any boat that would beat the time. A year later they were presented to the steamer J. H. Lucas, which beat her record a few hours.

PEACHES BECOMING SCARCE.

Georgia peaches have about stopped coming into the local market and the crop seems to be exhausted. From present indications peaches will be very scarce from now on. The crop of home grown peaches is very light, having been injured by late frosts. The crops in other peach producing sections are also reported to be almost a failure.

SEC. STUART H. HANNA WILL DELIVER AN ADDRESS.

The annual conference of Y. M. C. A. secretaries and physical directors of Kentucky, will be held September 10-11. The place for the conference has not yet been selected, but it will probably be held either in Pee-wee Valley or Anchorage.

The discussion of the topic will consume the first afternoon session of the conference. State Field Secretary F. J. Michel, of Louisville, who is known here will lead a discussion of the subject "The Condition and Needs of Young Men Educationally and the Association's Relation Thereto." "A Policy for the Year," will be outlined by State Secretary H. E. Rosevear, of Louisville.

DELAYED BY ILLNESS

ONE OF THE AGED MEMBERS OF GOSPEL BAND VERY SICK.

The stay of the Megiddo gospel band and boat which are shortly due here at Evansville is prolonged by the serious illness of J. L. Griffiths, one of the oldest members of the band, and father-in-law of Captain L. T. Nichols. Mr. Griffiths is 85 years old, and has been a member of Captain Nichols' band since it was organized. He and his wife have traveled continuously with the boat. The old gentleman has been on the decline for several weeks, and the physicians have forbidden the movement of the boat while he is in his present condition.

PROSPERITY GROWS NEXT CONFERENCE

Telephone Officials are Satisfied With Local Expansion District Meeting Goes to Wingo in 1904.

President Dillows Appoints a Committee to Take Up the Factory Proposition. Three of the Delegates to the Annual Conference Are From Paducah.

A MAYFIELD FIRM ABSORBED GREAT PROGRESS IS SHOWN

Assistant General Manager Leland Hume, Traveling Electrician A. P. Harrison and Traffic Manager J. C. Symmes of Nashville, of the Cumberland Telephone Co., arrived in the city last evening late from a tour of inspection at Evansville, Owenboro and other cities and went over the company's plant here.

They were greatly pleased with the condition in which they found everything and were gratified to learn that the East Tennessee Co. now has in Paducah the largest business in its history, despite competition. The indications are that it will not be long until it becomes necessary to install additional switchboards to accommodate the rapidly expanding service. The officials returned to Nashville this morning.

The Commercial club meeting yesterday afternoon at the city hall to hear the proposition from Mr. C. E. Everett, representing the Rex Manufacturing Co., Chicago, to locate a picture frame and moulding factory here, was well attended.

The company desires to capitalize the whole concern for $200,000 and the company take $150,000 and citizens of Paducah the remaining $50,000.

President Dillows of the Commercial club appointed today the following committee to seek a suitable location and look after placing the stock: Messrs. George C. Wallace, W. P. Weeks, L. M. Riecke, E. P. Toof and George Dains.

The wholesale grocery firm of Covington Bros. & Co. of this city has absorbed the firm of Wilford, Stinson & Co. of Mayfield, but the latter firm still retains stock in the firm, but will take no active part in the management. The Stinson firm also controls mills, which will not be affected by the consolidation.

A LONG VACATION.

A POPULAR POLICE OFFICER GETS THREE MONTHS' LEAVE.

Office Guy Nance has been granted a three months' leave of absence from the police force and will leave next Wednesday with his wife for Los Angeles, Cal., to visit his son, Mr. Lee Nance, Jr., who is now located there, and his brother, Mr. Lee Nance, Sr., who moved to California with his family several months ago.

Mr. Thomas Orr, who was formerly on the police force will take Mr. Nance's place during his absence. Mr. Nance is one of the best and most popular officers on the force and will be missed. The trip will be a fine one and he will return in the fall no doubt greatly benefited.

Mr. John Doherty has gone East to purchase goods.

Delegates returned this morning from attending the meeting of the conference of the Paducah district, of the Memphis conference of the M. E. church, South, which has just closed its session at Indiana, Ky.

Those who attended from Paducah were: Rev. T. J. Newell of the Broadway Methodist church; Rev. W. C. Sellers, of the Third street Methodist church; Rev. J. W. Irion, of the Trimble street Methodist church; Rev. T. J. Owen, Messrs. H. H. Scott, Sam T. Hubbard, W. A. Martin, W. R. Hayes, John L. Webb, L. L. Jones, J. V. Powell, H. A. Hamberg, Neal Edwards and C. W. Morrison. The next meeting of the conference next July will be at Wingo, Ky. The following delegates were appointed to the meeting of the Memphis annual conference, which will convene November 11 in Fulton. Rev. T. J. Owen, Messrs. B. H. Scott and C. W. Morrison of this city and T. J. Harlow of Ballard county.

Rev. Warner Moore, D. D., of Clinton, preached the opening sermon Tuesday night. Rev. W. C. Sellers of the city preached Wednesday morning on "Missions." Rev. J. C. Roberts of Mayfield, preached Wednesday night on "Use of the Present Opportunity." Rev. T. J. Newell, of this city, delivered a sermon Thursday morning on "The World in the Church."

The financial and numerical growth of the church in this district which embraces six counties, was shown to be large. There were 512 additions to the church during the past year. Dr. Moore stated that the growth had been four fold in the past six years.

In the resolution of thanks offered at the close of the meeting Captain J. H. Fowler of this city, was thanked for rates given on the steamer Fowler for the benefit of the conference visitors.

THEATER MAY OPEN

ANOTHER OF SEWARD'S SHOWS TO BE HERE DURING REMAINDER OF SEASON.

The park managers have received word from Mr. Seward, owner of the Seward Shows, that he will be in Paducah with a new company as soon as possible, probably Monday. If so, the Casino theater in Wallace park will open again Monday night.

There are four of the Seward shows, and the one coming will not be the one that left two weeks ago.

Punctuality a Thief of Time. Mr. Max Hecht writes: "On Thursday of last week, at 3:30, the hour for the rehearsal of 'Trial by Jury,' I met Mr. Gilbert at the stage door of the Lyric, and congratulated him on his punctuality. 'Don't,' he replied, 'I have lost more time through being punctual than through anything else.'"—London "M. A. P."

WIDOW'S STORY TOLD

Young Woman Declares She Married Reg Duvall.

Admits That She Was Twice Before Married—The License Is Lost.

IT IS QUITE A MYSTERY

The controversy over the estate of the late Engineer Reginald Duvall, of Paducah, continues to attract a great deal of attention at Louisville.

Mrs. M. E. Duvall, of Paducah, and the young woman claiming to be the widow of the dead engineer, have both filed damage suits against the Southern railroad, and in the mother's suit the deposition of the supposed widow was yesterday taken at Louisville.

The Post says: Mrs. Duvall's testimony of last Tuesday was read by Stenographer Cassidy. Mrs. Duvall then took the witness stand. She was cross-examined by Mr. O'Doherty as to her Indiana residence. She said that she returned to Louisville about two months ago.

Asked if she is legally married to Reginald Duvall she said:

"I was married in the law office of Turner Wilson, at Center and Green streets, between 5 and 6 o'clock on August 19, 1902. My brother was present."

"I don't know the exact name of the man who married us. He was an old man named Corrigan and was secured by Mr. Wilson. He lived at Elizabethtown. After the ceremony my husband, brother and I went to the Avenue theater. I know there was a marriage ceremony, no matter what people say."

"I went with my brother and Reginald Duvall to the clerk's office and got the license in the morning. My mother was also shown the license."

"What became of the marriage license?" asked Mr. O'Doherty.

"I don't know. I saw the paper that I was told was the license in front of Straus' store on Market street. It was signed by my brother and Reginald Duvall. I have not seen it since that day."

"Did you go to Turner Wilson's office after Reginald Duvall's death?"

"Yes."

"For what?"

"I went to ask him if Mr. Duvall's family could claim his effects. Mr. Wilson told me that they could not."

At this juncture Mrs. Duvall, who had undergone the strain of the examination with considerable composure, broke down and wept.

Mrs. Duvall said that she telegraphed Mrs. M. E. Duvall a few hours after her son's death. She said that she never told anyone that she was married in a church at Fourth and Walnut streets.

Under further questioning Mrs. Duvall admitted that she had been married twice before that she wedded Duvall. Her first husband was Henry Parrard, also an engineer on the Southern. They were married in New Albany seven years ago. He died six years ago. Afterward she married George Sayer, now employed at the Mengel Box company, in Jeffersonville. They were divorced.

A COLISEUM

BISHOP MCLOSKEY IS TO DECIDE THE QUESTION.

The erection of a Catholic coliseum in Louisville, to cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, depends on the decision of Bishop McCloskey. At a meeting of those interested it was decided to place the subject under the auspices of the Federation of Catholic Societies, and with this end in view a committee, composed of Dr. F. S. Clark, chairman; Eugene Cooney, William Nehan, W. P. Hines and R. S. Tucker, was appointed to lay the matter before Bishop McCloskey.

A meeting of the committee was held and resolutions fully presenting the case were drafted and placed in the hands of Bishop McCloskey. At the time of the committee's visit the bishop was on the eve of leaving Louisville on a visit to churches in the diocese, but he took the project under advisement, promising to give his answer on his return to Louisville. Bishop McCloskey has returned and is expected to announce his decision in a few days.

WANTED MAD-STONE

LADY OF CERULEAN PAINFULLY BITTEN BY HER DOG.

The madstone at the Fowler boat store was applied to wounds on Mrs. Dovo Woods, of Cerulean, who was bitten on the leg by the family dog day before yesterday. It is supposed the animal was rabid, as it was not in the least vicious and suddenly jumping up bit her before he could be driven away. The stone gave Mrs. Woods relief by adhering to the wounds.

BLACK PLAGUE

DEADLY DISEASE CAUSING MUCH EXCITEMENT OVER IN ILLINOIS.

It is epidemic and the symptoms resemble smallpox. The town of Herrin is practically cut off from the rest of the world and cars between Marion and Herrin have been stopped.

The Benefits of Good Building and Loan Associations

There is nothing more solid, nothing better for the city and the people, nothing better to bring the poor to a feeling of independence, and nothing to make them better citizens than a well managed building and loan association.— From the Address of Welcome of Mayor to U. THE WEATHER.

PROTECTING ASSASSINS.

Before the people of Kentucky take any stock in the sanctimonious palaverings of the Democrats, especially in the subject of "protection to assassins," they should take a peep at the Democratic pardon records of Kentucky, at Breathitt county, one of the results, and then seek some more sensible campaign argument.

Along this line the Louisville Post says:

No one has drawn a worse picture of conditions existing in Breathitt than has Gov. Beekham himself. It is a picture that should burn itself in the mind of every man and woman in Kentucky.

Raleigh had approached with improper proposals Samantha Alkman, a girl of 14. She fled. He pursued, he turned and threw a rock at him, then turned to flee. He shot her, the bullet entering the back of her head. Raleigh was tried in Breathitt. He was convicted in Breathitt. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for life. Petitions for a pardon went to Gov. Brown. He refused. Petitions for a pardon went to Gov. Bradley. He refused. Then the petitioners turned to Gov. Beekham, who said the crime at that was manslaughter!

Raleigh slew that girl, or he did. He was innocent or guilty, silly said the jury, and Raleigh red not appeal.

Guilty? Of what? If guilty at all, guilty of as foul a murder as was ever committed on the soil of Kentucky.

What note what the governor says of the pardons prevailing in Breathitt: a pardon of this man is asked by a citizen judge who tried him; a pardon of this man is asked by a commonwealth's attorney, and a county attorney-elect, by a present county judge, and a county judge-elect; the county officers, and a large number of the best citizens abetted;

Whether of the girl, who says he believe the killing was intentional, and these the official witnesses who do not believe he should be punished. Nothing that has been written about the conditions of affairs in Breathitt compares to this picture of the demoralization of that county, drawn by the governor in his own defense. It is a picture of a community in which anarchy prevails, and where no man is safe who dares rebel against the reigning sovereign, and no man in danger, it matters not what his crime, who can procure the favor of that sovereign.

Our Dakota divorce laws have doubtless caused trouble in more than one happy family, and the courts of London, England, have just evinced a violent disapproval of them. D. S. Constandini sued his wife for divorce and alleged adultery by marrying Dr. Lance, the family physician, after obtaining a Dakota divorce. The court adjudged the couple guilty of adultery and awarded the outraged husband $125,000 damages against the doctor. The plaintiff's attorney thus explained the divorce proceeding to the London court: "This delicately nurtured lady of Belgravia went to a wild district of the earth, emigrated to the half-settled state of Dakota, became an American citizen, stayed six months there, fraudulently obtained a so-called divorce and married the co-responder there thus using the lax Dakota laws for her own purpose. This was fraud on civilized jurisprudence."

A lively war is on between barbers and undertakers in Chicago over shaving corpses. The barbers claim the undertakers have no right to shave even a dead man because they don't belong to the union, while the undertakers claim that it requires a different kind of ability to shave a dead man from that necessary in touching up a live one, and that undertakers are the only ones who have it. Besides, the barbers charge $5 to shave a corpse, despite the fact that the corpse is not particular about what kind of a job he makes of it, and is often financially embarrassed. The undertakers' union and the barbers' union are consequently badly disrupted over the controversy, and promise to take the matter to the federation of labor. It is supposed the next move of the tenuous artists of the Windy City will be to prohibit a man from shaving himself.

Judging from the action of a new congressman, Mr. Robert Baker of the Sixth New York district, there must be a great many congressmen subject to "official misconduct." He recently received from a railroad an annual pass, such as are given all congressmen, and promptly returned it with a letter stating that it was an "instigator of official misconduct." He, Congressman Rhea of Kentucky and Hon. John Wesley Gaines of Tennessee are the only congressmen, so far as known, who refuse passes. If the railroads were foolish enough to think that a pass would influence any congressman they would probably have those who decline their courtesies and then give out the fact to the newspapers, sized up about right.

One of the latest articles placed on the market is sawdust alcohol, which is said to be equal to the best made from grain. Some fellow will next be manufacturing whiskey from stove wood.

RED MEN.

TONIGHT AN IMPORTANT MEETING IS TO BE HELD.

The Red Men will hold their regular meeting tonight and will hear the report of the committee appointed to look into the matter of securing a contract for the carnival attractions. This will be an important meeting and a large attendance will probably be present. It is more than probable the Parker Carnival company of Abelen, Kan., will secure the contract.

DETAILS OF CHANGE

DORTCH CONCERN PASSES INTO THE HANDS OF THE TRUST.

Louisville, July 31—The large re-handling tobacco plant of Dortch & Sons will be turned over to the American Tobacco company tomorrow. No change will be made to the original agreement and J. R. Dortch will become a director in the company. N. F. Dortch will enter the general leaf department and B. W. Dortch will be manager of the local plant.

IS SOMEWHAT IMPROVED.

Fulton, July 31—Mrs. Charles Binford, who was accidentally shot by her husband night before last resulting from being mistaken for a burglar, is better today, and may recover. She is a daughter of Mace McDade, one of the best known men in Fulton.

THE JURY DIVIDED.

Trial of Manager Gage Before Judge Lightfoot.

Four Were for Conviction and Two for Acquittal—Notes From Police Department.

NEWS OF OTHER COURTS

THE BASEBALL CASES.

Manager Roy Gage, of the Paducah baseball club, was tried in County Judge R. T. Lightfoot's court this morning for violation of the Sabbath and the trial resulted in a hung jury.

The defense made a plea of playing for charity and the jury was unable to agree. Heretofore these baseball cases had been tried in magistrates' courts. Warrants were issued against managers of both teams, the Cairo and Paducah, but the former case was not taken up at all.

Those on the jury were R. G. Caldwell, Eli Guthrie, Richard Clements, Hiram Smedley, Henry Rudolph and James Mitchell, the last two farmers.

Two of the jury were for acquittal and four for conviction. It is understood that Messrs. Clements and Smedley were the two for acquittal and the other four for conviction, it being the general opinion that the fact that the playing was for charity was not fully established, hence four of the jury would not vote for acquittal. The case will come up for trial again Monday week, August 10.

TODAY'S POLICE COURT.

Gabe Fletcher was fined $5 and cost, for being drunk and disorderly.

The case against Charles Buck was continued until tomorrow.

The warrant on motion of the prosecuting attorney was dismissed in the case against Joe Barnes, charged with stealing railroad brass.

BROUGHT BACK FROM CAIRO.

Captain Henry Bailey returned last night from Cairo with Charles Huck, charged with grand larceny by robbing an Illinois Central conductor. The youth was located there after a search of several days and came back without a requisition. His trial is set for tomorrow morning before Judge Sanders.

RETURNED TO BE ACQUITTED.

Joe Barnes, who was arrested in March for the alleged theft of brass from the Illinois Central here, was today brought in and when arraigned in police court acquitted on motion of the prosecuting attorney. Two other men charged with a similar offense were tried yesterday and no case being made out were same acquitted and the evidence was all they had against Barnes, hence the dismissal.

MAN SKIPPED.

The man S. L. Austin, who was warranted for sending in a false alarm of fire from the Kettler boarding house on South Third several afternoons ago, has skipped out. He said he thought there was a fire near Fourth and Washington. Chief Wood swore out a warrant against him and when the officers went after him that night he had gathered together his belongings and left.

REQUISITION ARRIVED.

The requisition for the negro Devine, wanted in Osceola, Ark., arrived today and Devine will be held until an officer arrives. The writ of habeas corpus by which he attempted to secure his release pending the arrival of the requisition was yesterday continued over by Judge Husband on account of a message having been received that the papers were on the way. An officer is expected today to take him back.

CASE FOR POLICE.

A half starved horse was brought across the river this morning on the steamer Bettie Owen and when hitched to a wagon and made attempt to pull it up the levee gave way and fell down exhausted. The animal was badly bruised. Several gentlemen saw the condition of the horse and reported the matter to the police but no arrests were made.

MANY PECULIAR REQUESTS.

The police daily receive many peculiar requests. Yesterday some colored woman in St. Louis telegraphed to arrest a colored girl named Edith Singleton, but stated no reason, and of course the officers paid no attention to the message.

Another letter was a few days ago sent to the police from some negro in Tennessee who claimed that his sweetheart had come here and was in love with another man, and asking that she be arrested and sent back.

BROKE INTO THE STAND.

Some one, supposed to be boys, broke into Mr. Will Baker's stand at the baseball park a night or two ago and stole about $35 worth of goods. A large number of cigars and such things were missed, but no money had been left there. Mr. Baker thinks he has the thieves spotted and promises to make it warm for them.

LICENSED TO MARRY.

J. J. White of Marshall county, aged 23, and Mary Carmon of Marshall county, aged 21, have been licensed to wed. It will make the first marriage of both.

FOR BREACH OF THE PEACE.

Adam White, colored, was arrested this morning by Officers Clark and Johnson for a breach of the peace, and will be given a hearing tomorrow.

LOOKING FOR HORSE THIEF.

Sheriff Dave Reeves of Benton was in the city today looking after a horse thief. He had been unsuccessful in securing his man up until press time.

HABEAS CORPUS TRIED.

The habeas corpus case for the release of John Devine, colored, is on trial before Judge Husband this afternoon.

IN JUSTICE YOUNG'S COURT.

The cases against Trip Hazell, John Cron and Sam Holland, for setting up games, were set for August 5 in Justice Young's court. A warrant has been issued against Bud Nance by Justice Young for assaulting Ed Murray on the Henry Harley last Sunday.

COUNTY COURT.

T. J. Brigham deals to his relatives a plot of ground on the Mt. Olivet church road to be used as a cemetery for the burial of all their dead, whether related by blood or marriage.

I. C.'S IMPROVEMENTS

Gossip of the New Shops at Louisville.

Excursion From Anna Today—Big Crowd for St. Louis Tomorrow.

A big excursion was run into Paducah from Anna, Ill., this afternoon. The train was supposed to come in at 11:30 but was delayed. Among those on board were Mrs. Henry Lawrence, Golden, Ill., who will visit Mrs. W. D. Green; Dr. Harry Schaffer, of Anna, Ill., who will visit Mrs. Phil Best; Dr. William McClain, Donola, Ill.; Miss Mollie Richardson and Mrs. Belle Crawford, Gontola, Ill., who will visit Miss Fannie Collins. Will Collins and wife, Anna, Ill., who will visit friends here.

The Illinois Central will run an excursion to St. Louis tomorrow. This is the regular big summer rate excursion and no doubt will be well patronized.

Speaking of the Illinois Central's supposed intention of building shops at Louisville, the Post says:

"It is known that the Illinois Central railroad has secured an option on eighty acres of ground, situated in or just outside of the southern part of the city, and it has been definitely intimated to the city officials that the building of a large system of railroad shops is under consideration and if necessary, concessions can be secured that the option will be closed and the shops built."

"The Illinois Central road is branching out all over the south, and the railroad shops are mostly located near the northern terminals of the road. The need of shops to supply the southwestern territory is strongly felt, and President Stayveant Fish has taken several trips over the road to consider the best location for the proposed shops. It develops that he was greatly impressed with the importance of Louisville as the best southern gateway for his road, and he so expressed himself in conversation with an official of the city government."

Superintendent J. J. Gaven of the Tennessee division of the I. C. road, who has been precariously ill at his home in Fulton, is better and is now thought to be out of danger.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Pittsburg has a new twirler to take the place of Doherty, who suddenly became deranged. He is Molloy, of Goshen, Ind., and is said to be a world beater, and one who will become a star in the National league.

One of the fastest leagues in the country is the Cotton States league, one of these in the south. It was in this league some time ago that an 18 inning game was played in which the score was 3 to 0. Wednesday Dougherty, a pitcher for Monroe, La., pitched 21 innings against Natchez in a double-header and allowed only three hits.

HENDERSON'S NEW PLAYERS.

The Henderson club, which is here for a series of three games, has a number of new faces. Hans, the second baseman, and Perolval, one of the fielders, have been released, the former because his playing became rank and the other because he was disabled. Six new men will play their first games with Henderson here. Says the Gleaner:

The new men who have been signed by wire come well recommended and will surely make good. The following are the six who have signed: Cox, pitcher; Davis, center fielder; Porter, left field; McNeal, pitcher and first base; Hinkle, second base, and Christian, pitcher. The latter player comes from Chicago tonight. In conversation over long distance Mr. Christian said he would bring a third baseman from Chicago that was a crack player and hitter.

The battery for Henderson today will be McNutt or McNeil and Warner.

Clifford was called home on account of the serious illness of his baby. The child is better and Clifford was able to return and join the team at Cairo.

Some practical joker telephoned that a live lining game had been played at Cairo yesterday resulting in a score of 8 to 3 in favor of Paducah.

The Paducah team arrived from Cairo last night on the boat and the Henderson team got in at 3 o'clock this morning. The battery for today for Paducah will be Wilson and Clifford.

A dispatch from New Decatur, Ala., says that Sawyer, the pitcher, will come to Paducah to play. Sawyer was signed here several weeks ago with Potts, the second baseman but failed to come.

Jackson landed on Batts yesterday for thirteen large, juicy hits. The loss of Batts' grip must have put him to the test, for he seems to have lost his rabbit foot since. Perhaps his favorite bottle of complexion lotion was in that grip and the loss of that is causing the trouble—Hopkinsville New Era

Yesterday must have been Hedges' off day as he had to be taken out of the box at Louisville, where the Milwaukee club was playing its colonels, and retired in the second inning, fourteen hits having been made off him. Heretofore he had pitched almost phenomenal ball, and his friends here hope he will have better luck next time.

HOT TIMES

RIOTOUS SCENES IN THE GEORGIA LEGISLATURE.

Atlanta, Ga., July 31—Riotous scenes occurred in the legislature yesterday afternoon over the adoption of a resolution to investigate the charges that bills to kill the convict lease system and to provide for uniformity of text books in the public schools have been held up by lobbyists. The charges of corruption became so pointed that the senate adopted a resolution to investigate. When the resolution was read in the house the members were greatly angered by the fact that several of them who had attacked the lobby, were practically denounced by the senate.

Then followed a scene without a parallel in a Georgia legislature. Members rose in their seats and openly cursed the senate for its "cowardly conduct."

During the excitement it was charged that the ministers of the gospel had been haunting the capital as lobbyists, as have been the men who profit by leasing convicts. Feeling of house members is so bitter it is predicted that several senators may be assaulted.

LUCKY OR NOT?

"Eve was really a very lucky woman," remarked Mr. Henneque. "She didn't have any woman to criticize her clothes."

Mrs. Henneque's eyes snapped. "On the other hand," she retorted, "she didn't have any woman around to envy the first gowns a woman ever had!" —Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

FELL FROM WINDOW

James Hern Picked up Unconscious Today.

Tumbled From the Second Story of a House on Huntington Row and Was Badly Hurt

HIS INJURIES ARE NOT FATAL

James Hern, a helper in the blacksmith department at the I. C. shops, was found at about 4:30 o'clock this morning under a window at his home on Huntington Row, with his right arm broken at the wrist, his left eye badly bruised and the left side of his neck skinned and bruised.

It is not clear just how the accident happened. It is supposed, however, that Mr. Hern fell from a second story window, but there is also a theory that someone struck him. He was unconscious when found and when aroused could remember nothing that had happened during the night.

No one else was sleeping in the room from the window of which he is supposed to have fallen. He probably went to the window some time during the night and fell out.

Someone boarding to his home found him and carried him into the house. He was later taken to the I. C. hospital, where he is suffering considerably from his injuries, which, however, are not regarded as serious.

Little Miss Margery Martin, daughter of Mr. W. A. Martin, of this city, fell from a seesaw in Greenville, Ky., where she is visiting and broke her arm.

Mr. Warren Thornberry is now very ill at the home of his sister, Mrs. James E. English on Fountain avenue, as the result of the fall he had from a street car last Sunday night. He is suffering from an affection of the brain.

Mr. W. F. Morris, manager of the Mergenthaler basket factory, in Mechanicsburg, got the first two fingers of his right hand caught in some machinery yesterday afternoon, and the ends of both are badly mangled. Mr. Morris was showing the machines to the inventor, who was in the city, to suggest some improvements when he got his fingers caught. He is confined to his home on North Seventh street, and the fingers may have to be amputated at the first joint. Dr. J. T. Reddick attended him.

FUNERAL TODAY.

REMAINS OF FIREMAN HAGERTY ARRIVE—MR. BLACK'S DEATH IN ST. LOUIS.

The Globe-Democrat says of the death of Mr. J. W. Scott, father of Mr. John Scott, of the Paducah Peanut company:

William J. Scott, vice president of the St. Louis edible nut company, died at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at his home, 5087 Fairmount avenue. Though he had been confined to his bed since May 21, his death was unexpected, as until Wednesday evening the physicians had looked for his recovery. He had been suffering from stomach troubles, and peritonitis finally set in, with fatal results. He was conscious to the end and transacted some matters of business just before his death.

Mr. Scott was born in Wheeling, W. Va. He first became connected with what is now known as the edible nut company when the firm was located in Cincinnati, O., and came to St. Louis with the company years ago.

He married Miss Mary J. Anderson of Buffalo, Ind., in 1869. She survives him, as do three daughters, Mrs. Gratz B. Lindsey, Mrs. Emile M. Wald and Mrs. Clarence W. Bronzier and a son, John W. Scott of Paducah, Ky.

The funeral of the late Fireman Pat Haggerty, who was killed at Millington, Tenn., yesterday morning by an I. C. train, took place this morning at 10 o'clock from the St. Francis de Sales church, burial at Mt. Carmel. A large crowd of friends paid their last respects to the dead.

BIRTHS.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Green, 720 Jones street, this morning, a 12-pound girl.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Householder, of North 12th street, last night, a girl.

Mrs. L. W. Boswell is visiting in Fulton.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Thirty

Days Was My Life's Limit.

Agony From Inherited Heart Disease.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Me.

One person in every four has a weak heart. Unless promptly treated a weak heart will easily become a diseased heart. A little extra strain from any cause is sufficient to bring on this deadly malady, the most common cause of sudden death. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure will tone up the heart's action, enrich the blood and improve the circulation.

"My trouble began with catarrh and I have always supposed it caused the trouble I have experienced with my heart. I had the usual symptoms of sleeplessness, lost appetite, constipation, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath and pain around the heart and under left arm. My mother suffered in the same way and I suppose mine was an inherited tendency. At one time I was in agony. I suffered so severely and became so weak that my doctors said I could not live thirty days. At this time I had not slept over two hours a night on account of nervousness. The least exercise such as walking about, would bring on palpitation and fluttering of the heart so severe that I would have to give up everything and rest. Nerve and Liver Pills cured me of constipation and heart symptoms disappeared under the influence of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. I am in better health than I have been in twelve years and I thank Dr. Miles' Remedies for it. I think they are the greatest remedies on earth and I am constantly recommending them to my friends."—Mrs. L. J. CANTRELL, Waukegan, Tex.

NEW LAW

ATTENTION CALLED TO CHANGE IN NATURALIZATION STATUTE.

Frankfort, Ky., July 31—Governor Beekham has received from the department of state, Washington, a letter calling attention to changes in the naturalization laws effective July 3, 1903. The amended law provides that in order to render a court judgment of naturalization valid the court record must show that the person naturalized is not opposed to all organized government nor affiliated with any organization so opposed; that he does not advocate the unlawful assaulting or killing of officers of government and has not violated any of the provisions of the act to regulate the immigration of aliens and has complied with the terms of previous acts on the subject of naturalization. The act requires also that every certificate of naturalization shall specifically recite that the requirements of the act and previous acts have been complied with or be null and void.

MINISTER SUES MERCHANTS.

SEEKS TO RECOVER LANDS WHICH HE CLAIMS WERE DEEDED AWAY.

Sturgis, Ky., July 31—The Rev. Harvey, S. Bennett has filed suit against Messrs. Bishop, Winston and other prominent merchants to recover certain mineral rights in Hardin county, Illinois, alleging fraud and misrepresentations on the part of his partner in getting him to release the option and knowledge of the local capitalists of the scheme prior to their purchase. The land in question has proved rich in zinc and other minerals and the local company has already received large offers for their interests. Bennett is backed in his suit by wealthy farmers of the neighborhood.

WHISKEY DEAL

BIG DEVELOPMENTS EXPECTED SHORTLY IN KENTUCKY.

The most sensational developments in the history of the whiskey business in Kentucky are looked for within the next thirty days. It is reported on good authority that the Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Co. is about to commence another campaign and buy in a large number of the new independent distilleries which have been established in the state since the organization of the trust four years ago.

Rumor has it that negotiations have already been begun for the purchase by the trust of two of the largest plants in the state, the Glenmore and the Kentucky Club distilleries, both located at Owensboro. The cost of these two plants will be over $1,000,000.

THE PERFECT LIVER MEDICINE.

Mrs. M. A. Jolley, Noble, O. T., writes: "I have used Herbine for a number of years and can cheerfully recommend it is the most perfect liver medicine and the greatest blood purifier. It is a medicine of positive merit and fully accomplishes all that is claimed for it." Malaria cannot find a lodgment in the system while the liver is in perfect order, for one of its functions is to prevent the absorption of fever-producing poisons. Herbine is a most efficient liver regulator. 50c at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

"Well, you must have had a slick place from all I've heard," said Craig, still in his vast good humor with himself and everybody else.
"The best nater' ever built," said Pole; "an' what's more, it was in that that I found the gold. I reckon it had 'a' been discovered long ago, if it had 'a' been above ground."

"Then it's in a sort of cave?" ventured Craig.
"That's just it; but I've got the mouth of it closed up so it ud fool even a bloodhound!"
Half an hour later Pole drew rein in a most isolated spot, near a great yawning canyon from which came a roaring sound of rushing water and clashing winds. The sky overhead was blue and cloudless; the air at that altitude was crisp and rarefied, and held the odor of spruce pine. With a laugh Pole dismounted. "What of I was to tell you, Mr. Craig, that you was in ten yards of my old den right now?"

Craig looked about in surprise. "I'd think you was making fun of me—tenderfootin', as we used to say out west."
"I'm givin' it to you straight," said
Pole, pointing with his riding switch.
"Do you see that pile o' rocks?"
Craig nodded.
"Right under them two flat ones is the mouth o' my den," said Pole.
"Now let's hilt to that hemlock, an'
I'll show you the whole thing."

When they had fastened their horses to swinging limbs in a dense thicket
of laurel and rhododendron bushes,
they went to the pile of rocks.
"I toted mighty nigh all of 'em from higher up," Pole explained. "Some of the biggest I rolled down from that cliff above."

"I don't see how you are going to get into your hole in the ground," said Craig, with a laugh of pleasant anticipation.
Pole picked up a big, smooth stick of hickory, shaped like a crowbar, and thrust the end of it under the largest rock. "Huh! I'll show you in a jiffy."

It was an enormous stone weighing over three hundred pounds; but with his strong lever and knotted muscles
the ex-miner managed to slide it slowly to the right, disclosing a black hole about two feet square in the ragged stone. From this protruded into the light the ends of a crude ladder leading down about twenty-five feet to the bottom of the cave.

"I git!" Craig shuddered as he peered into the dank blackness. "You don't mean that we are to go down there?"
It was a crisis. With his life feet dealing in the hole, Pole threw himself back and gave vent to a hearty, prolonged laugh that went ringing and echoing about among the cliffs and chasms.
"I taved this old make yore flesh crawl," he said. "Looks like the open-in' to the bad place, don't it?"

"It certainly does," said Craig, somewhat reassured by Pole's levity.

"Why, it ain't more'n forty feet square," said Pole. "Wait till I run down an' make a light. I've got some fat pine torches down at the foot of the ladder."
"Well, I believe I will let you go first," said Craig, with an uneasy little laugh.

Pole went down the ladder, recklessly thumping his heels on the rungs.
He was lost to sight from above, but in a moment Craig heard him strike a match and saw the red, glowing flame of a spluttering torch from which twisted a rope of smoke. When it was well alight, Pole called up the ladder:

"Come on now, an' watch whin you put yore feet. This end of the ladder is solid as the rock o' Gibraltar."

"The square of daylight above was cut off, and in a moment the ex-banker stood beside his guide.
"Now come this way," said Pole, and with the torch held high he led the way into a part of the chamber where the rock overhead sloped down lower. Here lay some old whisky barrels, two or three lager beer kegs and the iron hoops of several barrels that had been burned. There were several one gallon jugs with corn-cob stoppers.
Pole swept his hand over them with a laugh. "If you was a drinkin' man, I could treat you to a thimbleful or two left in them jugs," he said almost apologetically.

"But I don't drink, Baker," Craig said. His premonition of danger seemed to have returned to him and to be driven in by the dank coolness of the caveren, the evidence of past outlawry around him.
Pole heaped his pieces of pine against a rock and added to them the chunks of some barrel staves, which set up a lively popping sound like a tiny fusillade of artillery.
"You see that rock behind you, Mr.
Craig?" asked Pole. "Well, set down on it. Before we go any further me 'n you've got to have a understanding."

The old man stared hesitatingly for an instant, and then, after carefully feeling of the stone, he complied.
"I thought we already—but, of course,"
he said haltingly. "I'm ready to agree to anything that'll make you feel safe."
"I kinder 'lowed you would." And,
to Craig's overwhelming astonishment, Pole drew a revolver from his hip pocket
and looked at it, turning the cylinder with a deft thumb.
"You mean, Baker?—But Craig's words remained unborn in his law-dered brain. The rigor of death itself seemed to have beset his tongue. A cold sweat broke out on him.

"I mean that I've tuck the trouble to fetch you here for a purpose, Mr.
Craig, an' that ain't any use in beentlin'
about the bush to git at it."

Craig made another effort at utterance, but failed. Pole could hear his rapid breathing and see the terrified gleaming of his wide open eyes.
"You've had a lots of death's, Mr.
Craig," said Pole. "You've made yore mistakes an' had yore good luck, but

"You're trapped me!"

you never did a bigger fool thing 'an you did when you listened to my tale about that lump o' gold."

"You've trapped me!" burst from Craig's quivering lips.

"That's about the size of it."

"But—why?" The words formed the beginning and the end of a gasp.

Pole towered over him, the revolver
in his tense hand.

Mr. Craig, there is one man in this world that I'd die for twenty times over. I love 'im more than a brother.
That man you've robbed of every dollar an' hope on earth. I've fetched you here to die a hangin' death, ef ef, I say, ef you don't refund his money.

That man is Alan Bishop, an' the amount is $25,000 to a cent."

"But I haven't any money," moaned
the cowering figure; "not a dollar that I kin lay my hands on."

"Then you are in a pretty bad fix," said Pole. "Unless I git that amount o' money from you you'll never smell a breath of fresh air or see natural daylight."

"You mean to kill a helpless man?"
The words were like a prayer.

"I'd bottle you up here to die," said Pole Baker drily. "You've met me in this lonely spot, an' no man could lay yore end to me. In fact, all that know you would swear you'd run off from the folks you've defrauded. You see, noddin' but that money o' Alan Bishop's kin possibly save you. You know that well enough, an' that ain't a bit of use palaverin' about it. I've fetched a pen an' ink an' paper, an' you've got to write me an order for the money. If I have to go as far off as Atlanta, I'll take the fast train an' go after it. If I git the money, you git out; ef I don't, you won't see me
ag'in n'r nobody else till you face yore Maker."

Craig bent over his knees and groaned.

"You think I have money," he said,
straightening up. "Oh, my God!"

"I know it," said Pole. "I don't think anything about it—I know it."

He took out the pen and ink from his pocket and unfolded a sheet of paper. "Git to work," he said. "You needn't try to turn me, you durnd old hog!"

Craig raised a pair of wide open,
helpless eyes to the rigid face above him.

"Oh, my God!" he said again.

"You let God alone an' git down to business," said Pole, taking a fresh hold of the handle of his weapon.

"I'm not goin' to waste time with you.
Either you git me Alan Bishop's money or you'll die. Hurry up!"

"Will you keep faith with me—if I—"

"Yes, darn you, why wouldn't I?"
A gleam of triumph flashed in the out-law's eyes.

The ex-banker had taken the pen and Pole spread out the sheet of paper on his knee.

"What assurance have I?" stammered Craig, his face like a death mask against the rock behind him. "You see, after you got the money, you might think it safer to leave me here,
thinking that I would prosecute you.
I wouldn't, as God is my judge, but you might be afraid."

me without puttin' yore self in jail for the rest o' yore life. That order's a-goin' to be proof that you have money when you've swore publicly that you didn't. No; when I'm paid back Alan Bishop's money I'll be yore go. I don't want to kill a man for jest tryin' to steal an' not makin' it realle."

The logic struck home. The warmth of hope diffused itself over the gaunt form.

"Then I'll write it to my wife,"
he said.

Pole reached for one of the torches
and held it near the paper.

"Well, I'm glad I won't have to go further 'n Darkey," he said. "It'll be better for both of us. I'm ridin' peert
I can let you out yore sundown. You may git a life longer at Harley, but it's a sight better 'n gittin' none hear an' no fed to speak of."

"I'm puttin' it in your hands, Baker," said Craig, and with an unsteady hand he began to write.

"Hold on there," said Pole. "You'll know the best way to write to her, but when the money's mentioned I want you to say the $25,000 deposited in the bank by the Bishops. You see, I'm not goin' to tote no order fer money I hain't no right to. An' I'll tell you another thing, old man, you needn't throw out no hint to her to have me arrested.
As God is my final judge, ef I'm tuck up fer this, they'll never make me tell whin you are. I'd wait until you'd pegged out, anyway."

"I'm not setting any trap for you, Baker," warned Craig. "You've got the longest head of any man I ever knew.
You've got me in your power, and all I can ask of you is my life. I've got Bishop's money hidden in my house.
I am willing to restore it if you will release me. I can write my wife a note that will cause her to give it to you.
Isn't that fair?"

"That's all I want," said Pole. "An'
I'll say this to you: I'll agree to use my influence with Alan Bishop not to handle you by law; but the best thing fer
you an' yore family to do is to shake the dirt of Darkey off'n yore feet an' seek fresh pastures. These round hear ain't as green, in one way, as some I've seed."

Craig wrote the note and handed it up to Baker. Pole read it slowly and then said: "You mought 'a' axed 'er to excuse bad writin' an' spellin', an' hopin' these few lines will find you enjoyin' the same blessin'; but of it gits the hoodle that's all I want. Now you keep yore shirt on, an' don't git skeered o' the darkness. It will be as black as pitch, an' you kin hear yore cyclops creak after I shed the front door, but I'll be back, ef I find yore old lady hain't run off with a handsome man an' tuck the swag with 'er. I'm glad you cautioned 'er agin axin' me questions."

Pole backed to the foot of the ladder,
followed by Craig.

"Don't leave me here, Baker," he said imploringly. "Don't, for God's sake! I swear I'll go with you and get you the money."

"I can't do that, Mr. Craig; but I'll be back as shore as fate, ef I get that cash," promised Pole. "It all depends on that. I'll keep my word if you do yours."

"I am going to trust you," said the old man, with the pleading intonation of a cowed and frightened child.

After he had got out Pole thrust his head into the opening again. "It'll be like you to come up here an' try to move this rock," he called out, "but you mought as well not try it, fer I'm goin' to add about a dunper load of rocks to it to keep the wolves from hearin' you out."

CHAPTER XXIII.

RAYBURN MILLER and Alan
spent that day on the river trying to catch fish, but with no luck at all, returning empty handed to the farmhouse for a late dinner. They passed the afternoon at target shooting on the lawn with rifles and revolvers, ending the day by a reckless ride on their horses across the fields, over fences and ditches, after the manner of fox hunting, a sport not often indulged in in that part of the country.

In the evening, as they sat in the big sitting room smoking after supper, cigars, accompanied by Abner Daniel,
with his long, cane stemmed pipe, Mrs.
Bishop came into the room in her quiet way, smoothing her apron with her delicate hands.

"Pole Baker's rid up an' hitched at the front gate," she said. "Did you send 'im to town for anything, Alan?"

"No, mother," replied her son. "I reckon he's come to get more meat. Is father out there?"

"I think he's some'er about the single," said Mrs. Bishop.

Miller laughed. "I guess Pole isn't the best pay in the world, is he?"

"Father never weighs or keeps account of anything he gets," said Alan.
"They both make a guess at it when cotton is sold. Father calls it 'ump-ing' the thing, and usually Pole gets the lump. But he's all right, and I wish we could do more for him. Father was really thinking about helpin' him in some substantial way when the crash came."

"That!" broke in Daniel, with a ge-ing laugh. "I've won my bet, I bet to myse' jest now that ten minutes wouldn't pass fore Craig an' his bu'st up would be mentioned."

"We have been at it, off and on, all day," said Miller, with a low laugh.

"The truth is it makes me madder than anything I ever encountered."

"Do you know why?" asked Abner seriously, just as Pole Baker came through the dining room and leaned against the door jamb facing them. "It's bec'ase"—nodding a greeting to Pole along with the others—"it's bec'ase you know I reason that he's got that money."

"Oh, I wouldn't say that!" protested Miller, in the tone of a man of broad experience in worldly affairs. "I wouldn't say that."

Signs of Polluted Blood.

There is nothing so repulsive looking and disgusting as an old sore.
You worry over it till the brain grows weary and work with it until the patience is exhausted, and the very sight of the old festerin', sickly looking place makes you irritable, despondent and desperate.
A chronic sore is the very best evidence that your blood is in an unhealthy and impoverished condition, that your constitution is breaking down under the effects of some serious disorder. The taking of strong medicines, like mercury or potash, will sometimes so pollute and vitiate the blood and impair the general system that the merest scratch or bruise results in abstenon-healing sores of the most offensive character.

Often an inherited taint breaks out in frightful eating sores upon the limbs or face in old age or middle life. Whenever a sore refuses to heal the blood is always at fault, and, while antiseptic washes, salves, soaps and powders can do much to keep down the inflammation and cleanse the sore, it will never heal permanently till the blood itself has been purified and the deadly germs and poisons destroyed, and with S. S. S. this can be accomplished—the polluted blood is again circulating freely throughout the body the flesh around the old sore begins to take on a natural color, the discharge of matter ceases and the place heals over.

S. S. S. is both a blood purifier and tonic that puts your blood in order and at the same time tones up the system and builds up the general health.
If you have a chronic sore write us. No charge for medical advice.

STABBED IN REALITY

Charles B. Middleton, Formerly of LaBelle Park Hurt.

The Knife Penetrated an Artery and He Nearly Bled to Death.

The following dispatch will be of unusual interest to Paducahans, as the principal in it, Mr. Charles B. Middleton, is well known here. He was first here several years ago, and last year was leading man at the La Belle park theater under the management of Mr. Schafer, later organizing the Middleton Stock company, which started out from Paducah early in the season. He married Miss Blanche Leighton, the leading woman, shortly afterwards, and has been on the road ever since. The dispatch is:

Columbus, Ga., July 30.—Charles B. Middleton, leading man in the Middleton Stock company, which is playing an engagement at the Casino in this city, was seriously stabbed tonight in the progress of the play, by George X. Wilson, who was playing the part of the villain. The weapon used was an 8-inch dirk and Middleton was stabbed in the right arm, severing an artery from which he came near bleeding to death. The curtain was rung down and the wounded actor was carried to a doctor's office where his wound was dressed. Wilson claims that the stabbing was accidental.

It was in the play for the villain to stab the hero, but the realistic part of it was not down on the program.

WAS EXAGGERATED

Nothing Much in the Booker Washington Incident.

Ruffians Went There to Create a Disturbance and Succeeded.

Boston, Mass., July 31.—The reports appearing in some papers, especially the southern papers, that there was an effort last night to mob Booker Washington, who was billed for a speech in the M. E. Zion church, colored, is practically without foundation. A few young bucks went to the meeting, where Washington was to speak, and fully intended to start trouble but the chairman caught on to their plans and exposed them and there was never any danger of any one's being moved. Seeing that the game was up, and that police had been sent for, they created a disturbance before Washington began his speech, and were promptly arrested. Only a few created the trouble.

Washington was not inclined to regard the disturbance as a serious affair. He said after the meeting: "Just as a few flies are able to impair the purity of a jar of cream, so three or four ill-mannered young colored men were able to disturb an otherwise successful meeting of the colored people of Boston tonight. I have rarely seen a greater triumph of the masses in favor of decency and order than tonight after the police had removed the disturbers."

Several arrests were made, one policeman was stabbed with a hatpin, while a man, said to be one of those opposed to Washington, was cut several times with a razor and taken to a hospital.

Both factions at the close of the meeting issued statements. Washington said in his statement that the negroes of Boston should not be held responsible for a few riotous individuals, while William Munroe Trotter, one of those who was arrested, said the cause of the rioting was the ruling of Chairman Lewis, in ordering the arrest and ejection of any person who hissed or manifested any objection to the speaker of the evening.

It is said that the disturbance was prearranged. After the meeting Trotter and his friends admitted that they went there with the idea of asking Washington a number of questions, and to resent any attack that might be made on the New England representative.

JUDGE PARKER TALKS.

WILL REMAIN ON THE BENCH WHERE HE IS WELL SATISFIED.

New York, July 31.—"I have had nothing to do with politics, excepting to vote since 1884. The party has not needed me."

This was said by Judge Alton B. Parker to a correspondent who visited him at his home, at Esopus-on-the-Hudson, and called his attention to the statement that he was a presidential possibility on the Democratic ticket.

"I will explain the position to you," continued the judge, "so you can understand why I cannot talk upon the subject you have mentioned. I went on the bench to make it my life work. It is congenial to me and I am very happy and contented. I am with my family here in my home. I usually take them to Albany for three or four months during the winter and when it is necessary for me to be away during the other months of the year I can run down from Albany every week. If I behave myself I can remain on the bench for life. The salary is ample. The New York state court of appeals pays its judges larger salaries than the United States supreme court. I shall remain on the bench. It is my ideal."

CHANGES HIS MIND.

"My doctor," remarked the nifty Boarder, "thought I was drinking too much strong coffee, but he changed his mind."

"What made him do that?"
